Advisor Workshop

Access for Students with Disabilities

Presenter:
Trudy M. Luken, MA
Director
Student Accessibility Services (SAS)

As an increasing number of students with disabilities pursue educational opportunities at all levels, accessibility to student services, including advising, is of increasing importance. To effectively advise a student with a disability, it requires a thorough understanding of the student’s goals as well as the student’s disability, the barriers the institution may have inadvertently created and the resources the university provides that can be used to assist the student in pursuing his or her education aspirations. This workshop will provide an overview of Student Accessibility Services that will include the university process in applying for services, types of accommodations, challenges of certain disability groups, best practices and tips for advisors.
