Safe Zone Training: Helping NMSU to create a safe space for LGBTQ students, faculty and staff

Sharna Horn
Sexual and Gender Diversity Resource Center

Thursday, April 18
2–3:30 p.m.
Room 50 Milton Hall

The Sexual and Gender Diversity Resource Center is excited to offer a Safe Zone Training for students, faculty, and staff. This interactive training is designed to address issues related to the gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender community and empower participants to become informed allies. Participants will learn about tools to help create a safe space here at New Mexico State University.

Sharna Horn has served as the Coordinator for the Sexual and Gender Diversity Resource Center since the fall of 2009. Prior to coming to NMSU she received her bachelor’s degree in psychology from Colorado State University and her master’s degree from Western Michigan University in counseling psychology. She is currently pursuing her doctorate in counseling psychology at New Mexico State University. She has done presentations at national conferences and has been part of several research projects focusing on issues that relate to the GLBTQ community.
